

WAR DEATH CLAIMS ANOTHER 'SUN' HERO

Lieut. Edgar Killed in Airplane Accident While at Front.

LOAN PLEA FROM FIELD

Words of Sergeant, Who Gave Life, Praise People of Nation for Support.

Casualties—those announced yesterday in the official lists from Washington—and those, word of which was received through private advice, included the usual number of boys from the city, Manhattan and Brooklyn each contributed about equal quotas.

In the unofficial list is the name of another Sun man—Lieut. Stuart E. Edgar of the 103d Aerial Squadron—who was killed in an airplane accident on August 17. Lieut. Edgar was a member of the staff of The Evening Sun and went to France first in the ambulance service, later transferring to the aviation after graduating from the French aviation school at Pau. He was the son of Mrs. Howard Edgar of Nutley, N. J., who received particulars of his death yesterday from his former commanding officer.

Perhaps no appeal for subscriptions to the Liberty Loan could be more trenchant in its effect than that unconsciously written by Sergeant Theodore Wallace of the 107th Infantry two weeks before he was killed in action on August 22. On August 9 in a letter to his family, Sergeant Wallace wrote:

"It is very gratifying to know that our people and nation in general are giving us their support, as we are the human breakwater which harbors the peace of our homes."

Letters received by his relatives and friends yesterday told of the death in action of Lieut. Edgar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Wolf of Poughkeepsie. Lieut. Wolf was well known in musical and social circles in New York and was a graduate of West Point. He was killed apparently by a machine gun bullet from a German airplane and the missile, before piercing his heart, cut the center of the nape of his neck.

Particulars of how he met his end were received from a brother officer of Lieut. Wolf's and also from the chaplain of his regiment. Enemy planes were operating overhead and an ammunition dump belonging to the Sixteenth took fire. Lieut. Wolf volunteered to lead a detachment to save the ammunition and was struck and killed instantly while performing this duty.

Lieut. Louis J. Lederle, killed in action, was a graduate of Fordham University and known in intercollegiate circles as an athlete. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Lederle of 27 West 113th street and was a member of the 308th Infantry.

Soldier Writes of Wound.
Corporal George M. Brunhuber, severely wounded, formerly lived with his mother, Mrs. Annie Brunhuber, at 465 Fourth avenue, Manhattan. In a letter since received from him the wounded lad wrote that he had been hit by a fragment of shrapnel and that it had been necessary to amputate his left foot.

Private Louis J. Lederle, 24 years old, severely wounded, was an actor before he began to play a part in the great drama being staged in France. He was assigned to the 308th Headquarters Company and was a stretcher bearer when hit. Mobrey arrived at an Atlantic port a few days ago and is now at the Ellis Island Hospital. His home is at 658 Eighth avenue.

Private Herman Schindler, killed in action, was a clerk and lived with his father at 408 West Fifth street. He was a member of the 146th.

Another member of the old Sixty-ninth whose name appears in the list of killed is Private John J. O'Hara, who succumbed to wounds received in the battle of the Gurra. Private O'Hara formerly lived with his seventy-one-year-old mother at 341 East Thirty-sixth street.

Boxer Landed on Enemy.
Private John Ward of the 307th Infantry was an amateur bantam weight boxer before he went to Camp Upton and put on so much flesh that he had to fight in the heavyweight class. He was severely wounded on August 23, but in a letter written just before that date to his mother at 261 West Eleventh street Ward said:

"I have been over the top half a dozen times, and when I get back Guy Empoy will have nothing on me. For every pound I take on I will take a ton of Hun flesh."

"Smiling Jack" Lane, a bosom friend of Ward, and also well known in the Greenwich Village district, was killed in action on August 20.

Private Morris A. Haffing, severely wounded on August 19, was a clerk and lived with his mother at 25 Avenue D. He went to France as a member of the 205th Infantry. He was overcome by gas.

Yesterday's lists included even more names of Brooklynites than had from Manhattan, and in the list was that of Major De Lancey Kane Jay of Westbury, L. I. Major Jay, according to word that has been received by members of his family, lost an arm. He is a son of Col. William Jay of Westbury and practiced law in Manhattan. He is a member of the Meadow Brook and other clubs and is well known as a polo player. He is 37 years old and received his commission at Plattsburg.

"The day I was wounded we fought the Germans to a standstill," was the cheerful letter received from her son, Private Timothy Hyman, by his mother, Mrs. Annie Hyman of 16 Heyward street, Brooklyn, yesterday. Hyman wrote that he was suffering from gas and shrapnel wounds, but would be out and around again soon.

In a letter received yesterday from his commanding officer Mr. and Mrs. Peter Madden of 1515 Dean street, Brooklyn, learned the details of the death of their son, Private James W. Madden.

A dramatic meeting of two Staten Island boys, former friends, was told in a letter received by Mrs. Mary Kessler of 21 Targee street, Stapleton, telling her of her son's end. The letter was from the driver of the ambulance that picked him up wounded from the field. "I recognized Jack right away," the ambulance driver wrote. "We picked him up and hurried him to a hospital. One of his legs had been shot off. I was with Jack when he died two days later and saw that he was given proper burial."

Word of the death from wounds of Sergeant John J. O'Leary, formerly a sergeant-major of the old Sixty-ninth and the first American soldier to capture German prisoners was received here by friends yesterday. Single handed he captured a corporal and four privates in one of the first engagements in which the American troops participated. O'Leary was well known in militia circles in New York and had a reputation as one of the best drillmasters in the service.

Buy a Bond!

Buy it intelligently! Buy it enthusiastically!

OF every $100 you invest in Liberty Bonds more than one-third—$35—is spent for you by one great institution—U. S. Ordnance.

"When the history of 1917-18 is published" writes Judge E. H. Gary, in Hearst's for October, "we shall be amazed by the recital of what Ordnance has done."

If you have been worried by tales of our boys in France fighting without airplanes, without cannon, without machine-guns; tales of War Department failures, read—"THE WORLD'S GREATEST BUSINESS—U. S. ORDNANCE" and get the real story.

In it William Almon Wolff gives you facts that will make you glad to put your money
